TOKENS IN TOTAL SUPPLY · BNB CHAIN NETWORK

PEXO

A token designed to drive participation in the digital economy.

An engine for the digital economy

Why PEXO exists and the problem it aims to solve

PEXO was born as a token built to facilitate the digital economy: a unit of value designed to move as smoothly as information moves today, without the friction that still limits much of the traditional financial system.

Built on BNB Chain, PEXO takes advantage of a fast, low-cost and widely adopted network to offer accessible transactions to individual users as well as to communities and projects looking for a simple digital medium of exchange to integrate.

PEXO's goal is not to be an isolated speculative asset, but a piece of infrastructure: a token designed to circulate, to sustain real economic activity within its ecosystem and to grow alongside the community that uses it.

Who drives PEXO

Founding team structure

PEXO is developed by a team focused on three complementary fronts: the technical construction of the token and its infrastructure, the economic design of its distribution model, and the growth of the community that will adopt it.

Development

In charge of the smart contract on BNB Chain, protocol security and the pre-Mainnet audits.

Strategy and tokenomics

Designs the supply distribution, the liquidity strategy and the token unlock schedule.

Community

Coordinates public events, partnerships and communication with PEXO's first users and holders.
